Heavy snow is expected across parts of Scotland bringing a chance of travel disruption over higher routes.

What to expect

- Possible travel delays on roads stranding some vehicles and passengers
- Possible delays or cancellations to rail and air travel
- There is a slight chance that some rural communities could become cut off
- There is a small chance that power cuts will occur and other services, such as mobile phone coverage, may be affected

Further details

Further snow is likely on high ground during the rest of Tuesday afternoon and evening. 2 to 5 cm snow is expected to accumulate above 200 m with 10 to 20 cm likely above 400 m. Strong winds accompanying the snow will cause blizzards with drifting and poor visibility in places, especially over the highest routes. Snow will clear away northwards by midnight.

Reason for update

Area updated to remove southern Scotland and northern England (where snow is turning to rain), whilst also extended northwestwards.
